

Melanie M. Acosta, Ph.D. is an Assistant Professor in the department of Curriculum, Culture, & Educational Inquiry at Florida Atlantic University. Her scholarship is focused on critical issues in teacher preparation to support African American educational excellence within elementary classrooms and local communities. Her work also examines the professional lives Black educators to illuminate how they rely on their cultural ethos to resist, transform and liberate themselves in ways that result in meaningful and non-alienating improvements in education and society. Her work is featured in journals such as The Journal of Teacher Education, Teaching and Teacher Education, Race, Ethnicity, & Education, Urban Education, The Urban Review, and Equity & Excellence in Education. Prior to her work in higher education, Melanie was an elementary school teacher and a community organizer for a grassroots parent empowerment group.
